Tähelepanu! Tegemist on välisvõrgust saabunud kirjaga. Tundmatu saatja korral palume linke ja faile mitte avada. Dear Estonian colleagues,

University of Latvia is currently preparing the project to be submitted under call CERV-GE-2026 priority No.2 'Promoting and supporting the implementation of the provisions of the Pay Transparency Directive and respect of equal pay for equal work and work of equal value'.

In this project proposal University of Latvia along with Latvian social partners (Ministry of Welfare, Trade Unions' Confederation, Confederation of Employers and State Labour Inspectorate) is planning to develop digital tool for employers and employees in relation to reporting and self-check as to compliance with equal pay obligations. According to available information in Estonia there is already digital tool Pay Mirror available. Taking into account your national experience in elaboration of respective digital tool University of Latvia would appreciate to work in the partnership with your institutions in respect to transfer of knowledge in elaboration of national tools for Latvia. Proposed collaboration would involve the consultation with colleagues from Estonian institutions regarding the content and development of Estonian national tool.

In addition, in this project the University of Latvia with partners are planning to prepare the handbook - comments to the implementing law of pay Transparency Directives, webinars for employers and training for the inspectors of State Labour Inspectorate.

The project proposal will be prepared by University of Latvia, thus no substantial in-put from Estonian colleagues is expected.

The University of Latvia would appreciate having Estonian institutions either as associated partners or partners (in order being able to pay for the consultations).

As regard the administrative matters, you will be contacted by my colleagues Kaspars Kozlovskis.

As the date of submission is approaching, we would appreciate prompt answer.

Best regards,
