An aerial photograph of a rural landscape with dense green forests and some cleared areas. Overlaid on the photo are several colored lines representing planned or existing roads. A prominent yellow line runs diagonally from the top left towards the center. Another yellow line runs horizontally across the middle. A red line follows a curve along the bottom edge. Various points and segments are labeled with text in Estonian. Some labels include numbers like 11115. There are also small icons, possibly representing buildings or specific landmarks. The overall scene depicts a planning stage for infrastructure development in a wooded area.
